KUMAKYA

Kumakya is more than a collection of songs; it is a musical memoir of dawn breaking after darkness. Across six tracks, Sandra Nankoma layers smoky jazz harmonies over African percussion, Motown-inspired grooves against Kadongo Kamu storytelling cadences, and vulnerable, multilingual lyricism that speaks to loss, faith, and the quiet courage required to hope again.

"Kumakya is that moment just before the sun rises – when everything feels uncertain, but you know the light is coming," says Sandra Nankoma. "I wanted to capture that feeling in six songs: the ache of waiting, and the joy of finally seeing the morning."

Sandra Nankoma

Sandra Nankoma is a Ugandan soul and jazz vocalist whose music bridges generations and geographies. Blending the sonic DNA of American soul and jazz traditions with the rhythms and languages of her Ugandan heritage, Sandra has carved out a singular space in contemporary African music – one that honors the past while speaking directly to the present.
